Since 1993, Naples-based BCB Homes has been building and remodeling custom homes and condominium residences throughout Southwest Florida.

BCB Homes was founded by a group of second-generation builders who continue to set high standards in luxury residential construction by combining the latest technologies with proven Old-World traditions.

A leader in Building Science, BCB Homes has researched, identified, diagnosed and resolved a variety of building issues to eliminate construction problems before they happen. Homeowners contemplating a remodeling project appreciate our Testing & Diagnostic Team who utilize a forensic approach to identify issues in existing residences.

With over 300 clients from Marco Island to Sarasota, BCB Homes is committed to making your building experience enjoyable and stress free. So if you're looking to build a new home or considering remodeling your current home, be sure to contact BCB Homes.

Field Personnel Golf Tournament

In September the Field Operations Team of BCB Homes participated in an in-house golf tournament which was held at Kensington Golf & Country Club. About 20 employees participated in the event which was organized by Eric Morris, Vice President of Field Operations. It was a great change being on the golf course together enjoying each other's company.

Fire & Water – The Perfect Outdoor Mix

Naples is well known for many natural attributes. Its sun-filled skies. Its gentle Gulf breezes. Its majestic palms. And its sandy white beaches. But it's also becoming well known for something else – spectacular outdoor living areas. And, two of the hottest trends in outdoor living spaces can be summed up in two words – Fire & Water.

BCB Homes has been the leader in creating and constructing outdoor living areas for many years. So it comes as no surprise that clients are requesting bigger and more luxurious outdoor living spaces.

"We're seeing a higher demand for outdoor fireplaces and fire pits than ever before," said Scott Weidle, BCB Homes' COO. "We're also seeing more water features – not only in the back of the homes but at or near the entrance as well."

There's a simple explanation for the trend – home owners want their outdoor living spaces to be an extension of their interior space.

"That's one of the reasons we're seeing more luxurious features outside," said Weidle. "Elegant fireplaces, wood burning or gas fire pits, linear fire walls and fire tables create a warm and inviting space to gather around, especially while entertaining."

Weidle quickly added the perfect companion for fire – is water.

"Fountains and ornamental water features create, not only another focal point for the outdoor living area, but also a relaxing sound as water trickles from multi-tiered bowls or cascades down a decorative stone or granite wall."

According to Weidle, every project is different. But they do have a commonality – fun.

"Even outdoor kitchens are getting larger and have more features including Evo grills, warming drawers, beverage centers and pizza ovens," he said.

How an outdoor living area is designed and what it consists of all depends on the client and their specific needs. Some need space to entertain large groups. Others just want a place to relax.

"The possibilities are endless because there are so many options," said Weidle. "At BCB, we'll continue to create and construct the best in Southwest Florida."

Port Royal Private Residence

The custom, contemporary style residence at 1770 Galleon Drive in Naples, Florida's exclusive Port Royal neighborhood was designed for a young couple who love to entertain, but also have young children.

The extraordinary estate with almost 8,250 square feet of living area was designed to include everything these clients could dream of – seven bedrooms, eight full baths, a study, a club room with adjoining play room, wine cellar enclosed with glass walls, a full bar, expansive gourmet kitchen with adjoining Utility/Craft Room, a private guest house, five-car garage, and a boat dock with direct Gulf access.

The outdoor living area and expansive pool of this stunning residence provides exquisite spaces to relax, entertain and cook for large groups, while still taking full advantage of the incomparable water views which are Port Royal's hallmark.

The brilliant, light-filled, open floor plan and mix of classic and contemporary finishes eschews the more commonly accepted approach to contemporary interior design and presents an environment that is forward thinking, warm, welcoming and exceedingly livable.

BCB Homes Sets New Accident-Free Record

Being in one of the higher ranked industries for work place hazards, we're happy to report BCB Homes' Self-Perform Team has set a new company accident-free record. It's been more than two years since any worker lost time due to an accident. That's the longest run in the company's 22-year history – and it was accomplished with the largest work force we've ever had. So congratulations to all for embracing our safe work place environment. May the streak continue for years to come.
